This is true. Indeed, consider such a pair (m, w) and consider a perfectmatching containing pairs (m, w') and (m', w), and, hence, not (m, w). Then since m and w each rank the other first, they each prefer the other to their partners in this matching, and so this matching cannot be stable.

---

[1]ex742.158.311